

Today's #VeteranOfTheDay is Frederick C. Montney III. Fred was in the U.S. Marine Corps as a communications Marine from 1974-1996. Fred participated in many operations in southeast Asia in the 1970s, 1980s and 1990s, aiding in the Philippines after the eruption of Mt. Pinatubo in 1991. He also served as the communications chief for USMC Commandant Gen. Al Gray.

Today, Fred works in the computer industry and resides in Delaware. The Montney family has a long-standing military tradition, with more than 10 members recently or currently serving in the United States military.

Thank you for your service, Fred and family!
